

METRO BLOOMS PRINCIPLES WORKING WITH MULTI FAMILY HOUSING

Metro Blooms is a non-profit that partners with multifamily housing to improve outdoor space through features like native plant gardens, trees, and community space. Our work is grant funded and we get connected to rental communities through previous projects and relationships.

Co-designing outdoor spaces that center resident priorities, are climate resilient and protect the environment.

Working with property owners who share values of livability, dignity, and affordability.

Ensuring residents are not priced out after outdoor improvements occur. Our priority is to support residents, not financial benefits for property management.

Uplifting resident needs outside of green space projects to property management and connecting renters to resources.

Paying residents for time, labor and expertise.

Offering accessible options for paid resident involvement, including for youth, people with disabilities, and people who speak languages other than English.

Practicing honesty and transparency with residents and property management.
